

Body language analysed the interview „Prince Andrew and Epstein”

Part 1

It would be a stretch	a sense of authority to distance yourself from the situation	to let sm off the hook a lip compression	a shoulder shrug
a base line	an eyebrow flash
a pulse rate	to nod
a handler	iffy
askewed tie	overpronounced
to strike awe	confirmation glances an element of compliance	to redirect the narrative to hold a rank	a jump on the invite
a strong contender	be out on your own hands clasped	to cascade
eminent	a swallow gesture
a blockage	gaze evasion
a descriptor	lip licking
tonality	a stroke of a hand to look off to the side	a steeple severity softening	to grind fingertips
to mill hands	to discount a resume a comforting move	a patron position
a flirt	to hide in plain sight to access memory	a master of stammering to tease sm	eye blocking
to drift to the left	eye flutter to stomach sth	a dart across condescending	mouth grooming
a train of thought	respiration ramping
words of compliance	face sagging jerks of the foot

rolling eyes

Part 2

to hold back information

to couch information

reiteration

to spill the beans

verbal mirroring

etching

to recollect the memory

looping

a one-sided smile

to foreshadow

on a rehearsed path

to mill hands

pupil dilation

to jump in here

to zero in on sth

to colour sm's judgement

to salvage dignity

a humble brag

a head tilt

to talk about sth in the open

the virtue signalling

to deflect from

a fake surprise

overreaction

conspicuous retreat

murky

to purse lips

a teachable moment

a bait question

hiatus

to denounce sth

to give an emphatic "no"

elongation

a denial of recollection

an over-answer

a hands-on dad

self-soothing

repetitive behaviour

snarky

to low-class yourself

internal logic

foolproof

to lie out loud

to jab in

to nail sm down

feet tapping

to untangle sth

you're dead on

submission

a wanky base line

a con artist

perception management