

Can airlines survive coronavirus?

to feel cut adrift	an onward travel in a state of shock	low-paid individuals on the brink of collapse	cherry-picking a nice-to-have	lobbying power entry bans	events industry demand for air travel	a haulage company a would-be passenger	to cancel sth overnight to head home	to survive on sth to self-isolate	to support income ground crews	gig economy workers a cabin crew member	on the assumption that ... to help out	collapsed business a swathe of cancellations	to hit the ground running capital-intensive	to keep sth alive a fragmented landscape	overheads state-backed airlines	logistical costs to keep the business running	transport infrastructure on the firing line	the cost to the economy landing fees	day in day out to put on hold	the other end of the bill payment to reverberate	a utility company to unravel

<https://www.bbc.co.uk/programmes/w3csy7fp>