

History of Argument Part 1, 19 Jul 2022

an argumentative animal to come into conflict with each other the vocal cords

a difference of opinion to resolve disputes through words insolence

to argue a case in front of an audience to establish scientific rules the foundation of democracies to reach the truth

not to lose its origin in combat to propagate lies

to pander to sm

to intimidate sm

supercharged arguments

disrespectful

to speak past each other a cornerstone of civilisation the key to a good education eloquence to place sth at the heart of ...

to lay the foundation

to pair oratory and democracy central to the idea to reflect on the qualities

a theorist

to get to the top

to work on the body language and delivery to make sm immensely wealthy a comically vast number of techniques a turn of phrase

forms of argument

to have the grounding in sth to spot a false analogy ascending tricolon, anadiplosis ably demonstrated

anaphora

to create a logical chain to partner with sm

to embody the principles parlour games for the privileged to emotionally relate to sm tribal politics

to see things on the merit of the argument entrenched beliefs

be led astray

to empathise with others in a direct democracy

to pile into an agora

an encounter between emotions and values to account for sth

to live a life alongside sm to slog the opponent

in the private domain

to sift out falsehoods

be hung up on truth

a debate conducted in good faith to require discipline

consciously rhetorical

an unapologetic high style linguistically able to lie in the underlying wisdom the moral stance behind the words to hold sth in high esteem to link politics to deeper principles deeper moral corruption a tyrant figure

a concern for morality to lay the ground rules for ..

ethos / pathos / logos

argument based on evidence

a logical thread

the appeal to emotion

to shake the trust

authenticity

to stand outside the system unyielding integrity

to read the crowd

be heckled

have the platform to speak